

Dr. Bethany Speer

Group Manager for Project Development and Finance, National Renewable Energy Laboratory (NREL), US

Bethany Speer has 15 years of clean energy experience, including policy research and managing a variety of technical assistance and capacity building efforts around the world. She has especially focused on programs to support investment mobilization into renewable energy and other technologies. Currently, she served as the Net Zero World Partnerships Manager and Investment Services Co-Lead. At the National Renewable Energy Laboratory (NREL), she manages a group that provides clean energy project development and finance expertise to communities and agencies in the United States and abroad. Bethany also leads NREL's partnership development with foundations for the lab's international efforts.